A Message from ASMTA President

Dr. Lauren Schack Clark, NCTM

Dear Test First Name >>:

Today is a very cold day with prospects of snow on the way, but hopefully by the time you read this my bulbs will be in full bloom. I can hardly believe this is the last newsletter I'll be writing as your president. I've enjoyed serving very much, and I thank you for the opportunity. I'm looking forward to MTNA in New York in late March. Although I grew up about 100 miles away from the city, I haven't been there in many years. I hope you all can attend our State Conference on June 1-2 at ASU-Jonesboro. Our guest artist will be pianist Robert Henry and we have a great roster of local presenters, as listed below in this newsletter.

I want to extend a warm welcome to our newest members. Please let me know how I can help make your ASMTA and MTNA experience a positive one.

Thank you so much for taking time to vote for Division Director Elect. The strength of our organization lies in the active participation of its membership. You are valued and appreciated.

Bad news, then good news about our membership numbers: In January, I received the report from MTNA regarding Membership Retention, and at that time, our state had the lowest percentage of retention in the last quarter of 2011. We went from 166 members in December 2010 to 141 members in December 2011. I was very concerned about this. Sherry Mashburn had been working hard to contact non-renewing members, so I'm not sure why this was happening. However, I sent out a message to our Board, and am happy to report that I received our latest membership list today, and it's now up to 153! MTNA is in the midst of the Each One Reach One Campaign now, and I thank you all for taking this to heart. If anyone has any suggestions, please let me or Sherry know.

You may have heard that MTNA had voted last year to delete the MTNA Competitions in Brass, Woodwinds, Strings, and Voice, but that vote was reversed at the December meeting due to pressure from the membership. Many thanks to those of you helped make this possible by sharing your opinions with me and with MTNA officials.

Click here to read an email I received on 2/1/12 regarding the fact that MTNA's books are being investigated by the Ohio Attorney General's office due to a complaint that was filed. Please read it carefully. Ben Caton, the MTNA President, was kind enough to schedule a phone meeting with me on February 10 to discuss this and other aspects of MTNA. It is his feeling that they will find nothing amiss.

Please let me know if you have any opinions you wish me to share with MTNA. They are poised to make some changes in the near future to best benefit both the regular and growing needs of the membership, and your ideas are very welcome. In the most recent issue of AMT, Gary Ingle, Executive Director and CEO of MTNA, wrote that "...MTNA's programs must be broad-based and its services all-encompassing for music teachers regardless of instrument, state, or category. It must be 'One Association for All Music Teachers.' "

Best regards,

Lauren

Independent Music Teacher Forum

We are looking forward to the IMTF breakfast to be held again at this year's state conference in June. Your support for this event will ensure that the IMT will have a meaningful Forum this year.

Based on the feedback from the 2011 IMTF session, I would like to have everyone bring to the next conference a favorite teaching aid. It can be

National award to be presented to native of city

By Heather Hawley
hhawley@eldoradonews.com

Being one of only six people from Arkansas to receive the Music Teachers National Association Foundation Fellowship Award, Sharon Ard, a teacher of music at South Arkansas University in Magnolia and an El Dorado native, will travel to New York in March to be presented with her honor.

Ard said the award is only given to specific people who show their love of music and teaching.

"The Foundation Fellow award is an award that is given to those who have distinguished themselves as outstanding music teachers, and those who have also done a lot of service work within the organization, the state division and the national levels of MTNA (Music Teacher National Association)," she said. "Each state can award as many Foundation Fellows they want to per year – usually not all states do."

Ard said she is the youngest of the previous five recipients from Arkansas.

The award ceremony is a fundraiser for the foundation, she said, and a way to bring attention to those who have gone above and beyond in their careers.

Harness who recently completed the MTNA certification process. I would encourage all ASMTA members who have not gone through the certification process to do so. The NCTM following your name lets the parents or your students know that you have made the extra effort to become nationally certified. I frequently receive requests from parents to recommend a music teacher for their children and I always send them to the MTNA web site to look for certified teachers in their area.

Competition News

The MTNA Board of Directors voted to rescind their decision to eliminate all non-piano competitions. The number of Arkansas competitors was low in 2011. These competitions allow students to set repertoire goals and receive feedback from competent judges. Please encourage students and teachers to participate. Thanks to the faculty at UALR for hosting the 2011 competitions. Also, thanks to the central Arkansas teachers for providing extra help and hospitality for the event.

anything from your studio that you find helpful in teaching any topic: theory, technique, memorization, sight-reading, ear training, etc.

Be prepared to join in the discussion. Let's learn from one another. Teachers in isolation are weak; united in reflection and in collaboration we are strong! Make plans to be at our next meeting.

Linda M. Calhoun
IMT Chair

With Gratitude

I am honored to have been recognized as the 2011 ASMTA Teacher of the Year. I have truly enjoyed the many years I have been associated with ASMTA. The membership includes people whom I count as my dearest friends and colleagues, and it has been a pleasure to serve you in so many different capacities. I always look forward to our times together and the wonderful opportunities for absorbing "bits of wisdom" from each of you.

With my warmest and most humble thanks,

'Piano Arkansas' on Facebook

There is a new Facebook page called 'Piano Arkansas' It is a lively and active forum for all teachers and students to exchange ideas and be aware

"It is just a way to raise money for the M.T.N.A. Foundation," Ard said. "You are elected by your peers to have this award given to you and the state organization in Arkansas pays $500 directly to the foundation fund that is established in my name. Then they are raising the other $500 from other individuals in the organization and people who know me."

When it was announced that she would be receiving the award for the state of Arkansas, she said she was overwhelmed with happiness.

"It is (really exciting)," Ard said. "I was really surprised when they announced it at the board meeting. The lady who is the chair of the foundation for Arkansas stood and made the announcement that the name Sharon Ard was being presented to the board."

Ard said she has always loved to play the piano and also knew she wanted to pass that love on to her students. "I have been teaching piano since 1985, but I did teach some while I was in college," she said. "I played the piano since I was 8 and I always knew that I wanted to teach."

At the university, she said she teaches several different classes and is a part of the symphony.

"I teach applied piano.

Much gratitude should be given to Trudy Kincaide, Naoki Hakutani, Lauren Schack Clark, and John Krebs. They were instrumental in making sure the rehearsals and competitions ran smoothly. The following is a list of winners and representatives from the Arkansas MTNA 2011 Competitions:

I teach music appreciation. I teach fundamentals of music theory and I am the choral accompanist," Ard said, adding that she loves her work.

Describing the conference, Ard said she is excited to be able to receive an award for her work.

"Music Teacher's National Association has a yearly conference and this coming year it will be in New York City and the gala is where they present the award," she said. "And everyone who is an award recipient gets a plaque, a pen and your picture up on a big screen."

While this honor is not rare, it certainly isn't a regular occurrence, she said, making her even more proud to have obtained the award.

"It is a big honor for the organization because few people really ever obtain it," she said, adding that while some chapters automatically vote for their outgoing president, Arkansas only votes for those who earn the award.

Ard said she has served her organization well by having held several different responsibilities over the years.

"In the state organization, I have served as treasurer, first vice president, president, chaired the independent music teachers forum and the foundation fund and am currently the competitions chair," she said. "I served on the syllabus committee for M.T. N.A. and I have also served as South Central Division certification commissioner." The stay in New York will last only a couple of days and Ard said her professor from graduate school will be accompanying her to the ceremony.

"I am just excited to go back (to New York) and hopefully I can take in a few Broadway shows," she laughed.

The conference will also allow her to take a few teacher workshops as well as listen to special guest musicians.

As far as being honored in this capacity, Ard said it is the first time she has been awarded something at a national level.

"It is a big deal because there isn't much else out there for an independent teacher to receive," Ard said. "It is just a very big honor."
